BRITAIN PERFECTS NEW FLYING BATTLESHIP

FIRST OF FLEET NOW BUILDING

EQUIPPED WITH GUN TURRETS

GREAT ACCURACY IN ATTACK

HOME DEFENCE SQUADRONS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, October 27, 2.10 a.m.)

London, Oct. 26.

The Air Ministry has placed a substantial order with a Norwich firm for large biplane bombers, equipped for the defence of Britain against hostile aircraft. These are to be Britain's battleships of the air.

A feature of the new planes will be a mechanically operated gun turret which works on the same principles as a battleship turret.

The plane will be called the "Overstrand" and is the first aircraft ever to be fitted with such a turret. The new gun mounting entirely eliminates the difficulties of gun operation at high speeds, and renders the marksmanship of a gunner in a plane travelling at over 200 miles an hour as accurate and untiring as firing from a fixed base.

The invention, furthermore, relieves the gunner of all physical effort hitherto encountered, a thing which made an aerial marksman's task most arduous.—Reuter Special.

MORE PLANS FOR ROYAL WEDDING

Second Ceremony At Buckingham Palace

London, Oct. 26.

In connection with the marriage on November 29 of the Duke of Kent and the Princess Marina, the authorities in London of the Greek Orthodox Church, of which Princess Marina is a member, are completing arrangements for a short wedding ceremony according to rites of that Church in a private chapel at Buckingham Palace immediately after the Duke and his bride have returned from Westminster Abbey where the main ceremony will be held.

This service will be attended only by members of the royal family and visiting royalty. Afterwards the King and Queen will give a wedding luncheon party in the Palace state rooms at which between sixty and seventy guests will be present.

Official notices of proceedings of the House of Lords indicate that when that House reassembles on Wednesday the Duke of Kent will take the seat to which his new honour entitles him.—British Wireless.

AMERICA PROTECTS EXPORTS

BANKERS PROMISE TO AID INDUSTRY

NATIONALISED CO-OPERATION

Washington, Oct. 26.

Nationalised co-operative plans in which bankers, industrialists, labour, and agriculture all will play a part, and a scheme for the safeguarding of American exporters' interests, are among the newest undertakings under consideration by President Roosevelt and the leaders in the United States recovery campaign.

Four high officers of the American Bankers' Association, among them the new President of that body, Mr. Rudolph S. Hecht, called to-day upon President Roosevelt and informed him that their association was prepared to co-operate fully in the administration's recovery campaign.

They declared that the bankers were not only willing but anxious to lend to industry. Speaking in a baseball simile, which Americans like so well, they said through their president: "We are four ball players for an all-American team composed of banking, industry, labour, agriculture and capital."

REMOVING RISKS.

Mr. Hecht said he expected to hold discussions to-day on a plan to remove foreign exchange risks from the export market by clearing all exports through the Stabilisation Fund.

By this scheme the Fund would buy foreign exchange from the exporter subject to collection abroad and would assume the risk of getting the funds out of foreign countries.

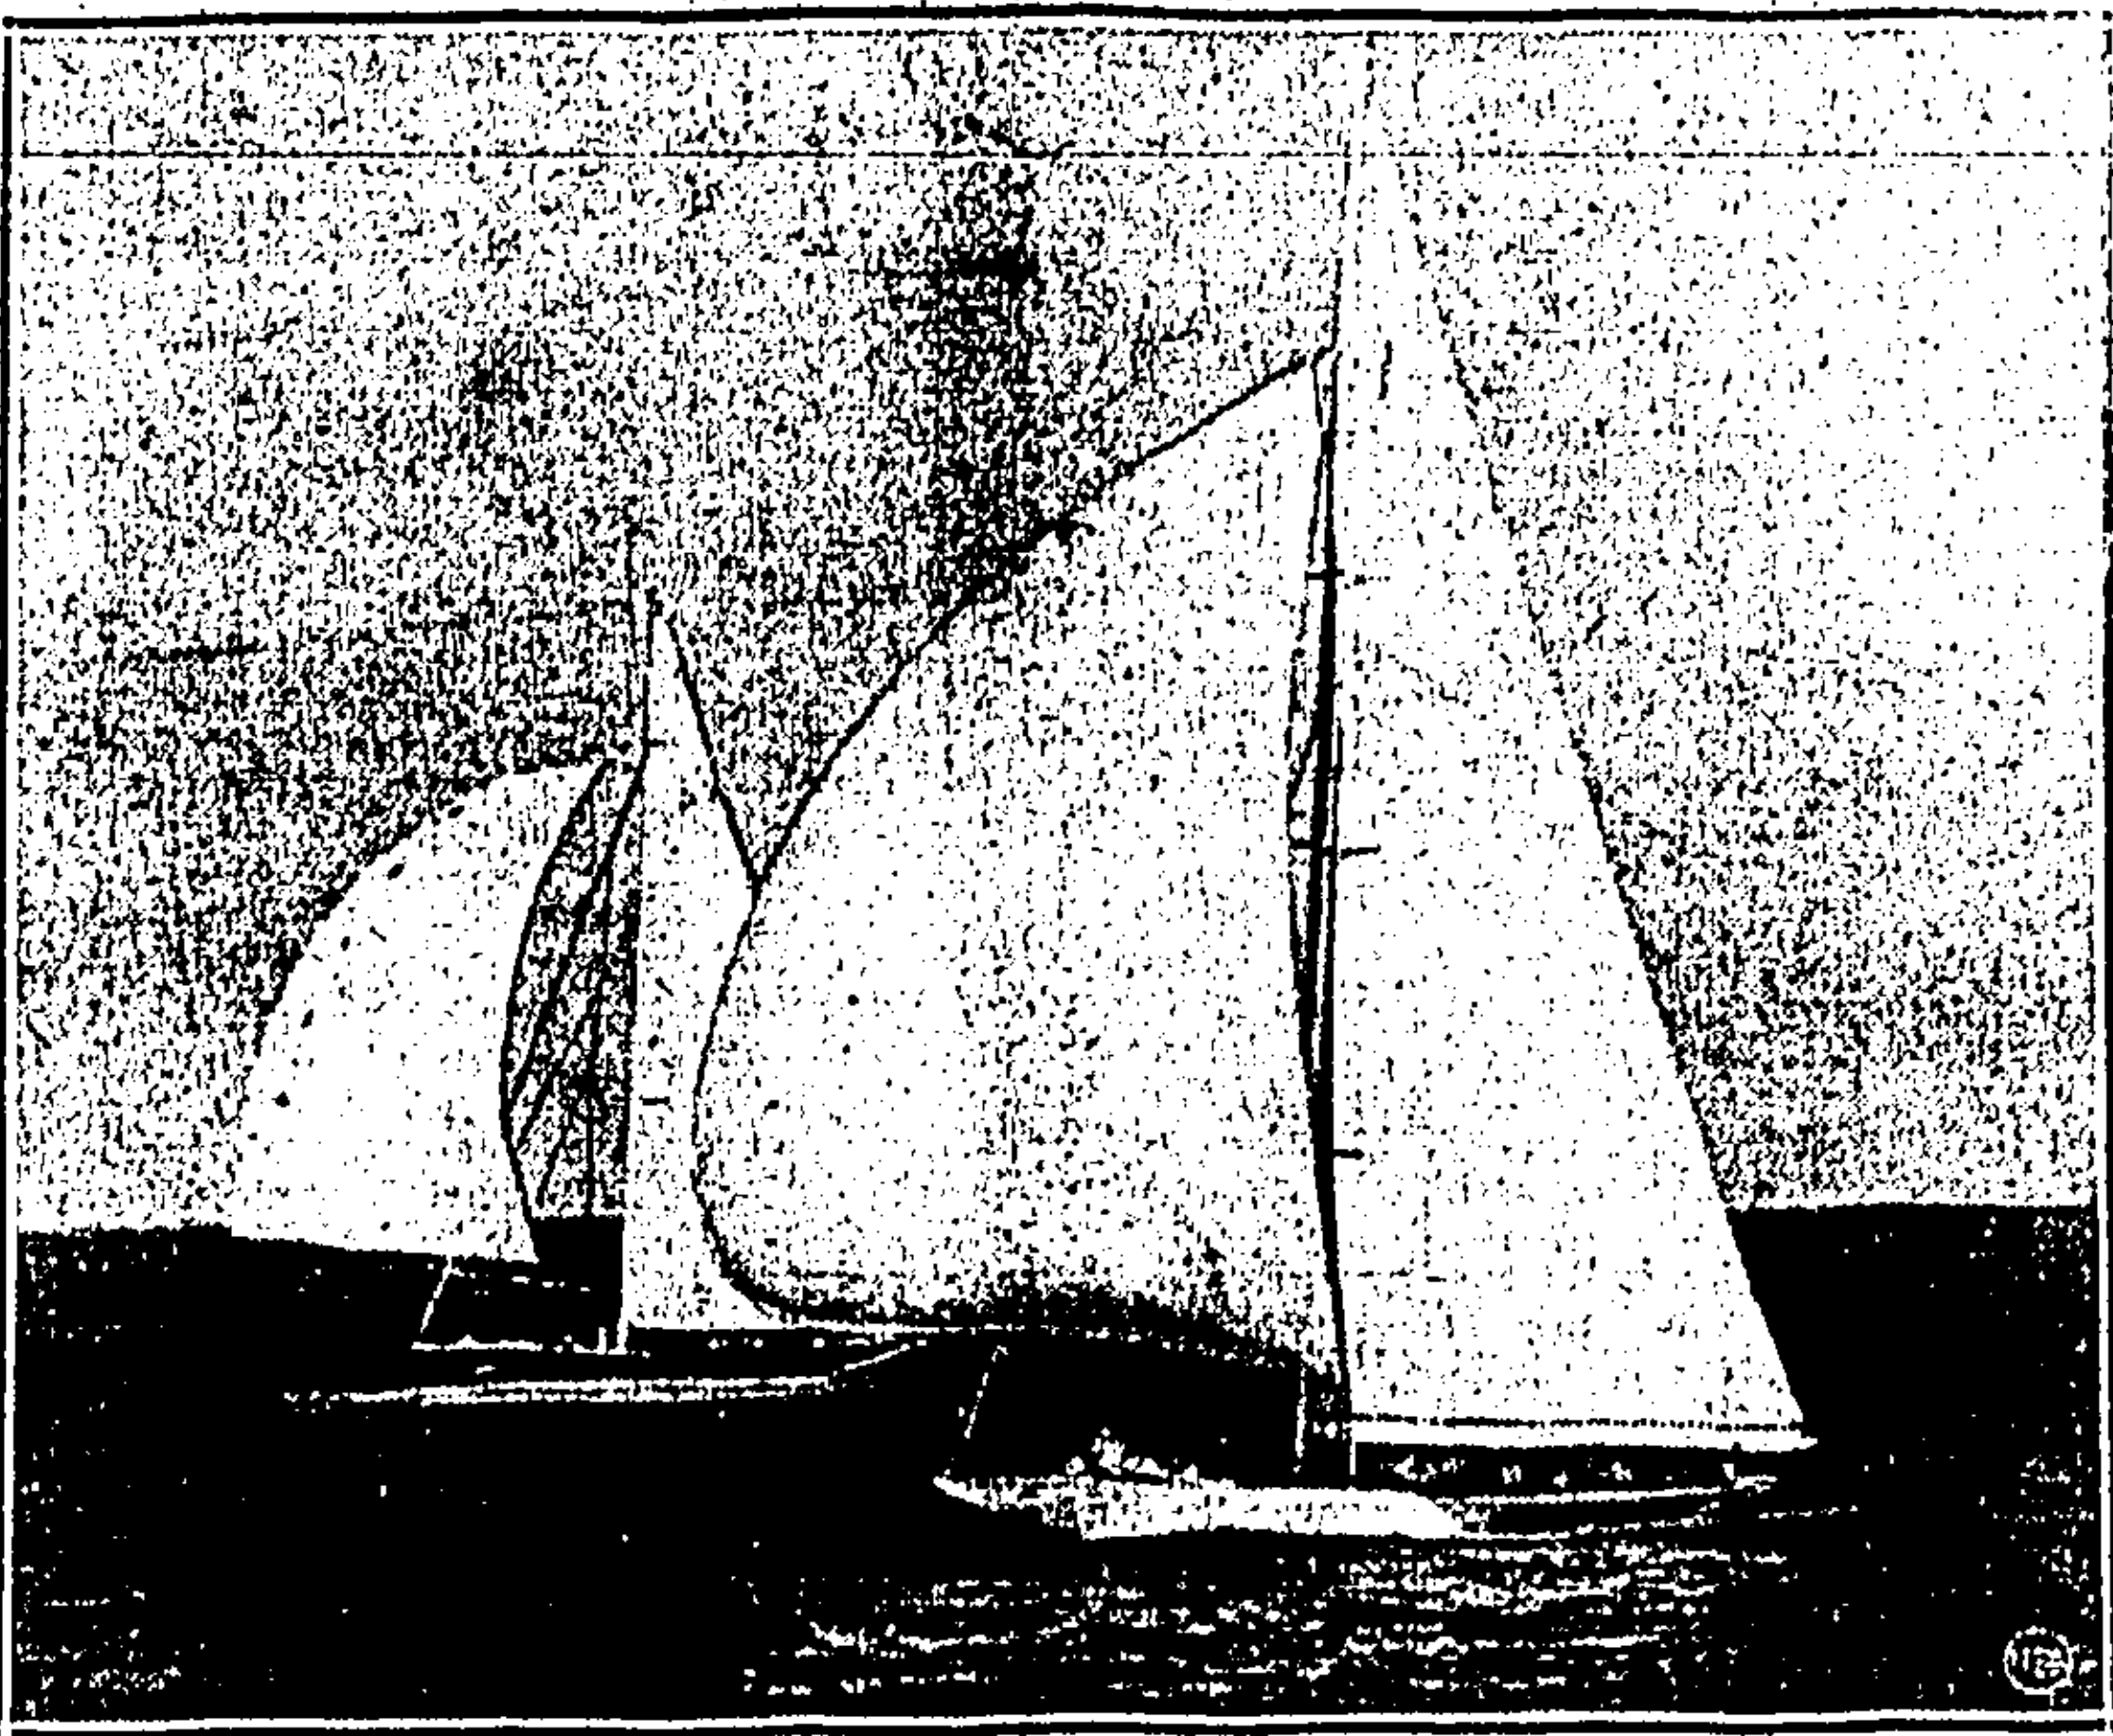

The plan has been studied by, among others, the Special Committee of the Federal Reserve Bank Governors.—Reuter.

JAPAN POLICY INDICATIONS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, October 27, 2.10 a.m.)

Washington, Oct. 26.

A high authority here has stated that the global tonnage figures for each of the three naval powers which Japan will propose at the London naval conference will be below Japan's present strength.

The proposals will involve extensive naval scrapping on the part of all concerned, but mostly by Great Britain and the United States.

The new ratio would be created somewhere between 2-2-2 and 3-3-3, it is believed.

It is indicated that Japan anticipates that Great Britain and the United States would resist the drastic scrapping required to bring about a 2-2-2 ratio, and would thereupon seek to compromise at 3-3-3.—United Press.

MORE CONVERSATIONS.

London, Oct. 26. Another meeting in connection with the preliminary naval discussion took place to-day between the Japanese and United Kingdom representatives at No. 10 Downing Street when the Japanese furnished further information in elucidation of a number of points in their proposals. A further meeting will be held shortly.

It is understood that these conversations will continue on informal lines and Japanese proposals have been made orally and are not embodied in any single document. Certain technical matters which have emerged were referred at to-day's meeting to a sub-committee of both parties and this meeting was held at the Admiralty this afternoon.

Conversations between United States and British representatives will probably resume Monday or Tuesday. Other parties to the Washington Treaty are being kept informed of the progress of these bilateral conversations.—British Wireless.

Britain Alone Has Control of Export

London, Oct. 26.

The desirability of an international agreement to control the exportation of arms is under consideration by the British Government as a result of the enormous delay in applying the recent embargo on the sale to Bolivia and Paraguay.

The Governments of other countries which manufacture arms are likely to be approached. At present Britain alone exercises official control of the sale of arms to foreign countries.—Reuter.

COSTLY VOTE CATCHING?

London, Oct. 26.

Sir Arthur Michael Samuel, M.P., in a speech at Farnham expressed the hope that those who had preached the raising of the world's price for silver to increase the purchasing power of the Far East and thus revive the world's faltering trade, had now learned their lessons—and their error.

President Roosevelt, he charged, in order to secure votes from the American silver-producing states, had artificially raised the price of silver and had dislocated China's trade entirely.

As a result of breaking the rules of supply and demand, President Roosevelt had injured America's trade with China and had probably done harm to Anglo-Chinese commerce, which in turn would retard the trade of all the world.

For, explained Sir Arthur, China and all the Far East, play an important part in trade recovery and must not be impeded in their marketing.—Reuter.

The Foreign Policy Association for the Analysis of Armaments discloses that its investigations have established that the Japanese expense expenditures have doubled since 1931, increasing from 25 to 43 per cent. of the total budget, with no signs of any plan for reduction in the near future.

All expenditures of all powers, except Germany, exceed the pre-war level, the Association claims. The percentage of increase since 1931 is as follows:

DENIES INFLUENCE IN MANCHUKUO

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, October 27, 2.10 a.m.)

Washington, Oct. 26.

High officials of the administration regard the apparent attempt on the part of Japanese, or Manchukuo interests, to secure an oil monopoly in what was once Manchuria, as of exactly the type of trade exclusion Japan would foster in the Far East if she were permitted hegemony.

It is considered most significant that the monopoly programme was exposed simultaneously with Japan's claims for naval equality.

The Tokyo contention that Japan has no influence in the matter of the proposed oil monopoly in Manchukuo is regarded as a gross evasion, as Japan actually assumed explicit responsibilities in the matter of Manchukuo's foreign relations.

RAILWAY'S INTEREST. Furthermore it is generally admitted that the Japanese-owned South Manchuria Railway will own the majority of the monopoly company's shares.—United Press.

"PROTEST TO CHINA!"

Mr. Gaimusho, spokesman for Japan, in reply to the allegation that Japan and Manchukuo are seeking to enforce an oil monopoly system in Manchukuo, stated that protests should be directed to China!

This advice made little impression here and was dismissed as attempted cleverness.

It is expected that efforts at settlement of the monopoly question will continue until a satisfactory understanding is reached. The situation is complicated by the fact that Manchukuo is not a party to the treaties guaranteeing the "Open Door" but it is recalled that Manchukuo officials pledged themselves to retain the "Open Door" policy and that Japan has repeatedly asserted its intention to do all possible to maintain that condition.—United Press.

Financial returns just issued show that the Colony's credit balance on July 31 was $14,984,385, compared with $14,778,313 at the end of June.

Revenue for July totalled $2,912,101, against $2,940,287 for the same month last year, whilst for the period from January to July inclusive the total was $18,084,245, against $21,122,083 last year. Expenditure during July was $2,707,028, against $2,493,888 last year, whilst for the seven months the respective figures were $16,923,483 and $17,574,284.

Mr. Cathcart Jones and K. F. H. Waller, flying a D. H. "Comet" with lighter engines than that which Scott and Black used in setting the record for a London-Melbourne flight, are off on a voyage by which they hope to establish a record for a trip from London to Melbourne and return.

The British airmen left here 7.05 a.m. to-day (Local Time) and are heading for Charleville.

Meanwhile, other planes are still travelling in the opposite direction in the London-Melbourne race. Squadron Leader Malcolm McGregor and Henry Walker in their Miles Hawk left Brunette Downs en route to Cloncurry.

From Karachi, John Wright, the American airman, is reported at 6.45 a.m. and Lieut. Hansen, the Dane, has landed in Singapore. C. J. Melrose, youthful Australian pilot, left just ahead of Hansen's landing.

DON'S APPEAL DISMISSED MANX COURT'S DECISION

FOUR MONTHS' SENTENCE

Kaye Don's appeal against his conviction and sentence last July for the manslaughter of his mechanic, Frank Taylor, was dismissed by the Court of Appeal, Douglas, Isle of Man. Judgment was given after the Court had sat for three days to hear the arguments put forward on behalf of Don and the reply of the Attorney-General.

Harold Derbyshire, K. C., Judge of Appeal, and Mr. R. K. Chappell, K. C., Second Deputy, who heard the appeal, decided that Don's sentence of four months' imprisonment should run as from Wednesday, September 26—the day on which the hearing of the appeal began.

Since his conviction Don had been on bail pending the appeal. His prosecution took place after a motor crash near Douglas, on May 28, when he was testing a racing car out of practising hours in readiness for the Mannin Mor and Mannin Beg races. He was himself badly hurt, and Taylor received injuries from which he died. Sixteen grounds of appeals were lodged, including a plea of misdirection of the jury and that the verdict was against the weight of the evidence.

When the two Judges of Appeal had taken their seats Mr. Chappell, announcing the decision of the Court, said: "It is the judgment of this Court that the appeal against the conviction be dismissed. We will hear counsel on the question of sentence."

Mr. Chappell, continuing the judgment, said that on behalf of the appellant it was alleged that questions put in cross-examination had tended to show that Taylor had made a deathbed statement blaming Don and, therefore, prejudicial to him. "In my view the jury must have come to the view that such a statement was made and that to some extent the credibility of Don could not be relied upon. The jury must also have come to the conclusion that Don was thoroughly careless of the rights of the public. All this must have been prejudicial to Don, but that does not necessarily make it unjustifiable. So far, the line taken by the prosecution cannot be justified, and I do not consider the reasons put forward by the prosecution sufficient to excuse this breach of the main rules of evidence. The result, so far, is that evidence and questions have been allowed prejudicial to Don and which were not justified by the rules of evidence."

GROSSLY EXCESSIVE SPEED. "There have, in my view, been wrong decisions on questions of law, and these may or may not have amounted to miscarriages of justice. I do not decide that point. But further than that we have to consider a provision of the Island's Criminal Code Amendment Act that an appeal may be dismissed notwithstanding such matters if the Court considers no substantial miscarriage of justice has occurred."

Mr. Chappell then discussed the various points raised in the appeal concerning the Deemster's summing up, and said that he considered the summing up was adequate. On the question of speed, even taking an hour, he considered that any jury would say, in all the circumstances of the case, that that speed was grossly excessive, even taking into account the renowned skill and nerve of Don and his ability to come with sudden emergencies. In regard to the defence that the collision was due to something going wrong with Don's car just before Mr. Chappell said he thought any jury would dismiss it as fantastic and a theory of Don's.

Mr. Chappell concluded, "that any reasonable jury would have come to the same conclusion that this jury did arrive at. I consider, therefore, that there has been no substantial miscarriage of justice, and that the conviction must stand."

Cover the syrup with thinly sliced apples. Brush edge of pastry with brush dipped in cold water, roll up, place in a buttered baking-tin. Brush over with milk, and bake in a moderate oven for about three-quarters of an hour.

substantial miscarriage of justice, and that the conviction must stand."

Mr. Derbyshire, I agree. Mr. Derbyshire, announcing his reasons for concurring, said that, in his view, the jury had been properly directed as to what amounted to criminal negligence, and that they must, in any event, inevitably have come to the same conclusion they had reached. There had been no substantial miscarriage of justice.

"IMMEASURABLE REMORSE." The delivery of the judgment occupied an hour and seven minutes. Mr. B. C. Kneen, for Mr. Don, then asked the Court to reduce the sentence to the imposition of fine. The case, he said, was not one of those of a man driving recklessly and killing an ordinary member of the public passing along the road. Kaye Don had already suffered severe punishment, for the dead man was one for whom he had great regard. He had suffered immeasurable remorse, serious injury, suspense, and considerable expense. Although uninsured, he had met the claim of the widow out of his own pocket. Mr. Kneen asked the Court to take into account Don's record as a driver who had helped to keep England to the fore in motoring matters. Don deserved more sympathy than a mere reckless fool.

The Attorney-General for the Isle of Man (Mr. R. B. Moore), replying to Mr. Derbyshire as to the question of Don's health, said that there were proper facilities for treatment in prison. Mr. Kneen concluded that the verdict of manslaughter affected Don's living and career. It was a very special case, and while every prison had its hospital it

SOVIET WOMAN EXPLORER SENT TO ARCTIC AS GOVERNOR

BROUGHT "OUTSIDE" BY PLANE

Moscow, Oct. 24. Two years of hazardous adventure in the Far North ended recently for Nina Rubtsova Dummo, Soviet woman explorer, when she was taken off Kamenov Island by the well-known Arctic flyer, Anatol Alexeev.

Miss Demme's post, while not the northernmost of the Soviet Arctic stations, is considered one of the most dangerous. Sometimes for an entire year ships are unable to reach it.

The meteorological station is situated on one of the four islands named in honour of Sergei Kamenov, member of the Soviet War Commissariat and head of the Committee of the North in the All-Union Central Executive Committee.

Two years ago Miss Demme was brought to the island by the ice-breaker "Rusakov", commanded by Professor Otto Schmidt, leader of the recent ill-fated "Cheliuskin" expedition.

Three men went to the island with her. One, the radio operator, M. Govlev, was her husband. The circumstances of their marriage are interesting. In 1930 Miss Demme took part in an expedition to Franz-Joseph land. She was the party's geologist and the wife of its leader, M. Ivan Granov, and was the only woman among ten men on the island.

The story of her romance in the isolated wastes of the Arctic is not fully known, but she returned as the wife of another man, M. Govlev.

GOVERNOR OF ISLAND. A year later she was ordered to Kamenov Island. Although three men were included in her party, she was selected to be its chief. In this capacity she became the "Governor" of the island and the official representative of the Soviet Government.

Although there were no inhabitants on the island except her party, Miss Demme was given a "mandate" of full executive power over her "realm" including the right to control "all outgoing and incoming ships and all kinds of trade."

In 1933 no ship was able to approach the island and the colony bravely stayed on for another winter season, meanwhile carrying out valuable scientific work, including collection of data on Arctic weather.

AMAZING ADVENTURE. Last spring Miss Demme's small colony was enlarged by two additions—Captain Boris Lavrov and Pilot Mauno Lindel, who had miraculously escaped alive after the wreck of their plane in the central region of Kamenov Island. They trudged for days across the Arctic ice before reaching the little colony.

They were joyfully received by Miss Demme and her companions, although their presence made further inroads on the colony's already meagre stock of food.

Last August the ice-breaker "Sibirskov", tried to reach Kamenov Island to rescue the colony, but was unable to carry out its mission. Thereafter Alexeev determined to reach the place by airplane. He was successful, evacuating not only the six persons on the ice but also their dog-teams.

Before leaving for the Arctic, Miss Demme told this writer: "The Arctic is no place for a tenderfoot."

Her exploits have proved that she does not belong to this class. —United Press.

was desirable with spinal injuries, as in this case, that the man should be able to consult specialists. Mr. Derbyshire said that the Court did not feel justified in interfering with the sentence of the Deemster.

POLISH DARK HORSE WORRIES EUROPE

By VERNON BARTLETT CALLING

WITH the admission of Russia to the League of Nations, the Assembly has ceased to be "news." Nevertheless, the Polish proposal to universalise the system of protection of minorities is only one of three or four subjects which may lead to important events before the delegates pack up and go home.

Nobody ever knows how Marshal Pilsudski will behave, for he keeps his own counsel. On the stairs of the Belvedere Palace in Warsaw he has hung a cartoon headed, "The Marshal consults his Cabinet." It shows him in a room entirely surrounded by mirrors.

If Poland's proposals were rejected too abruptly he might order Colonel Beck to leave Geneva, as the delegates of Brazil, Japan and Germany have already done. Even should the immediate danger be cleared away—as I believe it will be—Poland's refusal to co-operate with the Council if minority petitions are sent in against her would make her re-election to the Council next year very doubtful and her consequent withdrawal from the League very probable.

MUCH SYMPATHY.

There is a good deal of sympathy in Geneva for the Polish claim that the Great Powers who gained territory after the last war should be bound by the same pledges towards their minorities as the smaller ones.

But Colonel Beck so frequently confuses national prestige with national greatness that even the best friends of Poland are uneasy about her future.

It is a lamentable fact that nobody worried much about Italy, for example, until mild little men like Bonomi and Facta had been replaced by Mussolini with his speeches about national prestige and the beauties of war. But Poland has always had such an exaggerated national pride that any further development of it is a danger.

NEARER WHOM?

The best comment upon the possibility that the Poles might

M. Bogomoloff, Soviet Ambassador to China, and Mrs. Bogomoloff, as they left Shanghai for Moscow where they will spend several months.

Third Reich (Germany) than to the Third Republic (France). The German intervened. Poland, he said, was much nearer to the Fourth Partition.

French newspapers hint at a secret treaty between Poland and Germany to explain the present strained relations between Poland and France. Polish pride and sensitiveness, however, supply all the explanation that is needed. For France, in her enthusiasm for her new friend, Russia, has certainly treated her old ally with a casualness that is almost insulting.

There are some doubts as to how long the French enthusiasm will last. M. Barthou's defence of Russia in the Political Committee of the League was so apologetic and opportunistic that it offended the Russians themselves.

They would rather be attacked than excused, for M. Litvinoff has always been ready with effective counter-attacks. His speech on his admission to the League did

He said to me—you're not necessarily a man of the world just because you drink Johnnie Walker

I said to him—no, but you can't call yourself a man of the world unless you do...!

Found in Film on teeth... the germs of tooth decay!

Buried beneath an ever-forming film, this invisible enemy attacks enamel and destroys the part beneath. To fight decay, you must remove film every day.

YOU don't need a microscope to pick out film-stained teeth. The naked eye can see them, for film is discoloring.

But where the naked eye sees ugliness, the microscope sees danger. Magnifying film 1,000 times and you will see living germs of many kinds.

Destroyers of lovely teeth

Lactobacilli are "germs of tooth decay." They feed on particles of food that cling to teeth. They give off acid that dissolves tooth enamel, then devours the part beneath. Finally the nerve is reached.

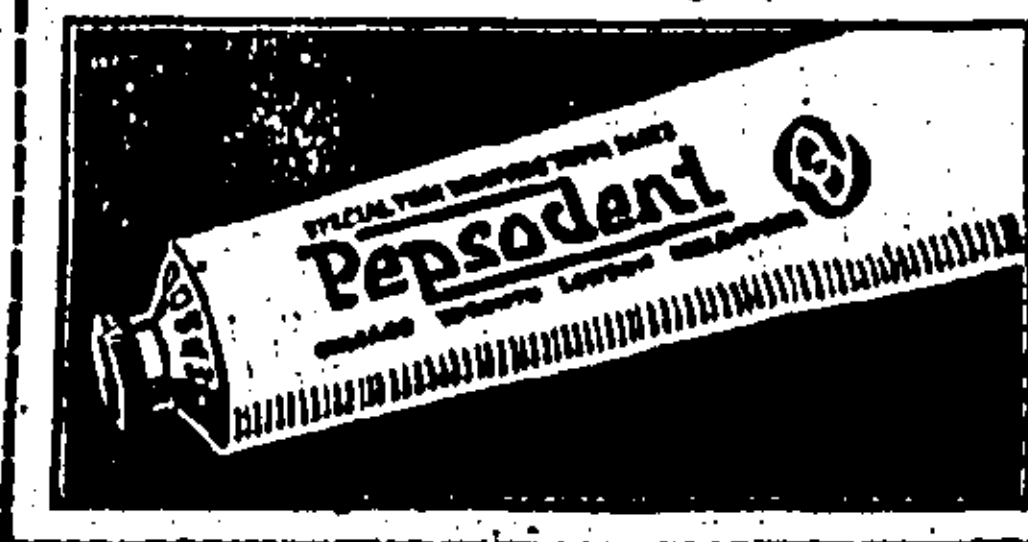

The film scraped from a single tooth may easily contain millions of living organisms. The only way science accepts of removing germs from teeth is to remove the protective film-coat in which they multiply. Film defies all ordinary ways of brushing. That's why Pepsodent laboratories have developed a new and revolutionary material for removing ugly, stubborn film. It is radically different from any found in other tooth pastes, different in composition and in action.

Some tooth pastes clean with materials so hard that they scratch enamel. The new material in Pepsodent is soft—twice as soft as the material commonly used in dentifrices. Yet it shows extraordinary power in removing film and giving brilliant polish.

This new cleansing and polishing material is contained in Pepsodent exclusively. Remember that when you are tempted to save money on cheap tooth paste.

BITTER ATTACK ON
EARL HAIG.MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S
WAR MEMOIRS

London, Oct. 26.
 An intensely bitter attack on the late Earl Haig and the late Field Marshal Sir William
 Robertson for the slaughter of Paschendaele is the outstanding feature of the fourth volume of Mr. Lloyd George's War Memoirs, published to-day.

The war-time Prime Minister vividly and ruthlessly describes Paschendaele as "one of the blackest horrors of history; one of the greatest disasters of the Great War."

He declares that 400,000 British lives were squandered in a quagmire in order to satisfy the vanity and insane egotism of Earl Haig.

"The Field Marshal" declares
 Lloyd George, "willfully and skillfully misled the Cabinet and withheld facts which would have ended the futile destruction."

After promising that there would not be heavy losses, Haig gambled on the chance of a German break rather than confess failure to the politicians who had deposed Field Marshal
 French for a less stupendous error of judgment at Loos.—

Lt.-Colonel Harold C. Harrison who is to succeed Colonel Nosworthy as Chief of Staff in China from March next, when the latter takes over the 5th Infantry Brigade at Aldershot, is a famous sportsman. Lt.-Colonel Harrison will be promoted from his battalion, the 1st. Green Howards at Portland, and the county of Dorset will lose its newly elected Rugby president. He is the well-known Army and England international player, being capped four times (1909 and 1914) against Scotland, Ireland and France, appearing against the Navy in 1910-11-14.

He was born in 1889 and joined the Royal Marine Artillery in 1907 and was assistant adjutant in 1914. He was a temporary major in the South African Contingent and served in German South West Africa and adjacent borders of the Union in 1915 as a battery commander. Afterwards he was in France as commander of the Transvaal Heavy Battery and with the 11th Corps, being mentioned and decorated.

From adjutant of heavy artillery and Staff College graduate he obtained a majority in the East Yorkshire Regiment in 1924, while G.S.O.2. at Singapore. Afterwards he came to the War Office as G.S. He was made a brevet Lt.-Colonel in 1927. He has been instructor in heavy artillery. He was educated at King's College School, Birmingham. He has the Order of the Sacred Treasure of Japan and the D.S.O.

His qualifications for China as shown above, are exceptional as he combines heavy gun experience allied to naval co-operation, infantry command, service afloat as a Marine officer, command of Dominion troops, Staff College graduate and instructor, qualified Imperial Defence student, instructor in gunnery, War Office experience and tenures helpful to his new post by having been on the Singapore Staff and Staff Chief in Malaya.

What is the USE of ADVERTISING

the claims made are proved a fallacy? Would you buy that article a second time? While advertising is a powerful force in educating as to the uses, merits or money saving advantages of a product, the people are the judges when they make their first purchase. "Delivering the goods" is what they demand, and the scrap heap of failures is piled with goods that could not stand the test of public judgment. 'ASPRO' messages are carefully planned to prove what 'ASPRO' can do to alleviate pain and suffering, and the reason of its success throughout the civilised world is simple, because it fulfils its purity is its safety, and its quick action the healing service humanity appreciates. 'ASPRO' conforms to the standard of purity laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia (the guiding authority of the Medical Profession), and the 15 uses enumerated below make it an invaluable quick first-aid emergency in every home.

Great Relief After 14 Years' Suffering

2 Thomas St., Lewisham, N.S.W.

Dear Sirs,
I have been suffering from Rheumatism and Rheumatoid Arthritis for 12 to 14 years. I have taken a course of your 'ASPRO' Tablets—three after each meal—and often, when in pain, have taken an extra dose before going to bed. I obtained very great relief from this treatment; in fact, I do not know how I could have continued to move about without 'ASPRO'. The pain has gradually improved, and now I find I need to take 'ASPRO' only occasionally. I can confidentially recommend 'ASPRO' to all sufferers from rheumatism (Sgd.) A. H. BURNS.

and the answer might be newspaper circulation or the number of peas in a bottle.

Of course, it is universally agreed that newspapers offer the most effective advertising media, but unless the circulation is guaranteed beyond all possible shadow of doubt, that vague bugbear... the "unknown quantity" creeps in.

THE IDEALIST AND PRACTICALITIES

The idealist is apt to be very radical in his views so long as he stays on his mountain-top and surveys the promised land from afar, but once he is brought face to face with realities he is more likely than not to modify his ideas. Responsibility, or even the prospect of it, tends to induce a cautious outlook. This point has been recently illustrated very clearly in the case of Mr. Upton Sinclair, the former Socialist, who aspires to become the next Governor of California. During the campaign which resulted in his nomination, he expounded his "Epic" Plan in great detail. Persons over sixty years would be pensioned, the States sales tax would be repealed, homes and business properties worth less than three thousand dollars would pay no taxes at all, a vast chain of communal farms would be established, and the State would buy and operate many factories. Once his nomination was assured, however, Mr. Sinclair began to modify his views. Following a visit to Washington, where he talked with the President and Government leaders, he returned to California and it gradually became known that his ideas had undergone a distinct change. The pension plan is now said to have gone, real estate tax exemptions are only now contemplated in respect of properties assessed at less than a thousand dollars, the communal farm idea is being scaled down, and the State-owned factories plan has undergone a change which leaves it pretty much the same as schemes which have already been put into operation in other parts of the country. Actually, therefore, Mr. Sinclair has ceased to be a Radical and has become a Liberal. But the point which these facts emphasise is that the prospects of power usually tone down the Radical's viewpoint and eliminate from it extremist ideas. We only need to turn to British politics for a demonstration of this fact. The history of the past five or six years has shown that the Socialist out of office and the Socialist in office are two totally different persons. Prior to the advent of the first Labour

NOTES OF THE DAY

POLAND'S ROAD

Militant, fiercely proud, of high courage, and unquenchably nationalistic, the people of Poland are slowly regaining that place among the nations which was lost to them when they were broken by war and trodden under the Russian heel in 1898. At Geneva recently it was a Pole, Colonel Beck, who challenged, with some justice, the League's guardianship of minority nations. Briefly, he declared that the great Powers who gained territory after the war should be bound by the same pledges as the smaller ones in respect to treatment of their minorities. It was Poland which upset Mr. Barthou's plans for an Eastern Locarno. Poland is taking part in world affairs; and an important part. Poland played an amazing part in the World War. In 1914 her armies were mobilised against Russia, for she was anxious to shake off the Russian domination. With the overthrow of the Czar, Poland's territory was freed from any threat in that direction, and the war-weary soldiers turned and thrust at the Germans who were on Polish soil. Poland was fighting a war of her own from 1914 to 1919. Had the outcome been other than it was, Poland would have been content to see Russian suzerainty abolished and taken her chance at breaking away from German and Austrian domination. As it happened, all three of her oppressors tottered, Poland broke free.

HARD WORK AHEAD

Had it not been for that surviving nationalism, the earlier divisions of the country would have ruined for ever her chances of regaining prestige. But Poles remembered that it was a Polish army behind John Sobieski which turned the Turkish invasion back at Vienna, that saved Christianity in Europe for centuries. They have examples of accomplishment under a "strong man" to give them optimism. If they lacked it, and behind Marshal Pilsudski, the one-man-cabinet, they are gradually winning their way to the forefront of affairs. The country was blest by the war, its people are impoverished, its roads are bogs and ditches, but it has one asset which defeat and oppression could not destroy—its patriotism. There is danger that that splendid character will become a cause of fear to Poland's neighbours, but there need be little apprehensiveness if Poland remembers Paderewski and the admonition: "Follow Pilsudski."

NO COMMENT

Julian Pernet is regarded as the most up-to-date newspaper-seller in the United Kingdom. With the aid of a home-made change-giving machine he literally sells the papers so that he who runs may pay and get change while making for his train. When Pernet first took up his pitch at a busy corner in Bayswater, he found he was losing customers because business men running for their trains could not wait for change. So he fixed a series of coin-holding clips to the miniature newspaper stand which hangs from his shoulders. These clips hold all the necessary change for any coin and for any priced paper or magazine. There is a tubular device by which, at the touch of a lever, an ever-ready supply of coppers is produced. If there is rain a little roof springs up over Mr. Pernet's portable newspaper stand. "You are a man of brains," an admiring customer remarked to him. "I am not," replied Pernet, dryly. "If I was really clever I should not have fought in the war, been wounded in the lung, and be forced to stand on a draughty corner selling newspapers."

Government, there were widespread fears that a victory for the Socialists would mean the ruin of the Mother Country and the disruption of the Empire. Conservatives even to-day argue much on the same lines. But the two Labour Governments which held office displayed such a moderate outlook whilst in power that they might well have been mistaken for Liberal administrations. Moreover, the head of present Government, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, who was at one time a most rabid Socialist, is now regarded as little other than a progressive Conservative in his outlook. It is the old story of responsibility's sobering effects. There is comfort to be found in these considerations. For, especially in the case of a country whose political traditions have settled down, they convey an assurance that there need be little fear of the zeal of progressive politicians out-running their discretion.

MR. PEPYS IN HONGKONG

Oct. 19th.—Up betimes and to the Office where I am very busy all day, and later to a preview of a picture. With me did come the Ladies of Mr. Cardiff and Mr. Eton, who did seem to enjoy the picture more than I did. Afterwards to Whipsnade where their Lords do join us and we drink a glass or two, but Mrs. Eton will only drink of a syllabub, which to me did seem most uncheering fare. After I fell to writing, and so late to bed.

Oct. 20th.—This day, having trimmed myself, to my office very betimes, and this time do manage to despatch my business in time to go on board the King's great ship, Suffolk, where I do find many old friends. And in the state-room I do find a new device, which they tell me is called in nautical parlance a barro, and being though small very compact and well arranged. I am greatly taken therewith, and have some thoughts of setting one up in my house. Yet it comes into my mind that it would be more wise to await the opinion of my wife, poor wretch, who may not entirely approve. Later to a swift frigate where much good cheer and a mighty pleasant dog, whose owner I do envy. So to the Clubbe for luncheon, and after I do share a motor coach with Mr. Hugh to the Race Course, but Lord I do make a very sorry business of it, and win not a single wager, though I come very close to some of the sweepstake billets. Afterwards to a box where I drink a glass or two and so home to do on more seeming garments, and so up the Peake to dine, where, as is my wont at low stakes, I do hold very good cards and win a couple of rubbers, Home and so to bed, but alas! only for an hour or so. For a certain other Clubbe, that had had—as I believe—a dance, of which the music doth give no disturbance whatever, doth come to life at a half hour after one in the morning and, it seemed, did open the windows upon my side, so that it did sound as if the harpsichord was just outside my window. And for a time I minded this not, though my heart did bleed with pity for the player, who did seem to have three thumbs upon each hand. Yet as I learn from a friend, who did out-train them at two of the clock, they did very courteously cease of the music at once. But even so, I was not for sleep, as a rat did keep me awake for night two hours to my greatest possible discomfort.

Oct. 21st. (Lord's Day).—This day I awake very late, and am mighty jaded after my ill-favoured night, which did culminate in a wild rat-hunt at about four of the clock with a stick. But joy indeed cometh in the morning, as I do find upon the rat-board the body of my late tormentor. And for this murderer of sleep there is no reprieve. And while thinking upon this I do find in the News Sheet a letter from one "Clement," in which he doth refer to a certain murderer, so convicted, as a "poor fellow" which doth much make me to vomit. Yet of such are they who would not see a poor dear murderer hanged! When I do have overcome my nausea, I do

Oct. 25th.—To the Krickett Clubbe meeting where all very satisfactory. But I am said at heart that my old friend Mr. L. Greenhill is retiring, and I do make a vow that I must be posted in the Clubbe before he leaves, he having been waiting for his chance these fifteen years. Later to visit Mr. Muleygrubs and his Lady who teach me a long and most intricate Patience, and then back to the Clubbe to dine, and write, and so to bed.

Romantic NEW GOWNS for Evening

THIS two-piece black velvet dinner suit has star-shaped buttons down the back of the bodice, long sleeves and a trimly fitted, floor-length skirt. The high-heeled sandals are of black silk, accented with bands of silver kidskin.

Sweeping trains and high necklines are giving way to sheath-like frocks that reveal the back and chest.

PALMER-DE LISO
New York

THIS BLACK VELVET evening gown with two circular ruffles placed around the low décolletage is worn with high-heeled red crepe sandals (top). Note the back fullness on the dress.

ROSE COLOURED MOIRE is used to fashion this youthful evening gown with softly draped neckline and circular back panel. The flat-heeled dancing slippers (centre) are worn with it.

HERE'S A SHEATH-LIKE evening gown in black velvet with a low décolletage that's outlined with a band of black elstene. The shoes (bottom) are satin T-strap sandals, piped with silver kid bands.

ROMANTIC is the one word that best describes new clothes for leisure hours. Slim, reed-like evening gowns, with unexpected fullness placed at hemlines, are reminiscent of an era, when pale ladies tossed roses from balcony windows.

Dinner dresses are cut on long, sweeping lines, too. And hostess gowns—the woman who doesn't love them simply doesn't exist—make one think of open fireplaces and divans piled high with velvet and satin pillows.

The new evening silhouette is swept backward. From the front a girl seems to be wearing a sheath-like gown. When she turns around you see sweeping fullness massed in the back of the dress.

Trains are not in evidence. Gowns are long enough to trail a few inches on the floor, but there is no sign of sweeping yardage such as we saw last autumn.

High necklines seem to have disappeared, too. In their place we get extremely low décolletages that reveal backs, chests and shoulders.

Velvet is a leading evening frock, of course. But stiffened fabrics vie with it. You'll see moire, taffeta and metallic brocades. You'll see woollen lace if you happen to be around some really smart women. It's a decidedly new vogue, introduced by Paris last summer, and it's finding favour with women who dance in hotel ballrooms.

Sometimes wool lace is woven with mental threads. Sometimes it's plain but loosely knit, so that the satin slip underneath has a chance to show. Anyway, it's always flattering and not nearly as warm to wear as it sounds.

Two-piece dinner dresses are newer than one-piece types. You can have a long, sweeping skirt with hip-length bodice or a rather narrow slit skirt, topped by a three-quarter length tunic. The short blouses button up the back. The tunics are finished with amusing little metal cloth vestees with cuffs to match.

Hostess gowns really are glorified negligees. Made of luxurious fabrics, they wrap around the figure, ending in a long train. Their sleeves are long and full and their necklines are decidedly décolleté. If you're going in for hostess gowns this winter, get some mules that match your evening slippers. Smart shoe couturiers make them in sets these days and they're finding favour with women who are ensemble-minded.

Speaking of evening slippers, remember that satin is the most popular. Then comes velvet, trimmed with vivid kid bandings. And then moire, dyed to match your gown.

BLACK velvet mules are worn with this flattering hostess gown of rose colored, non-crushable velvet. Silver fox is used to trim the long, flowing sleeves that are slit from elbows to wrists.

ECONOMIC FACTORS BEHIND JEWISH-ARAB CONFLICT

BY MARION RUBINSTEIN

The sons of Sarah and the sons of Hagar live side by side to-day in Palestine. And every once in a while, the newspapers of the world let us know that these descendants of the same father Abraham do not live in peace, that they fight and kill one another, because each is trying to defend its religious rights against the other.

Contrary to popular belief, the conflict between Jew and Arab is not a religious one.

While it is true that events occur periodically which tend to strengthen that belief, careful investigation proves that these events have been carefully planned to give just that effect, to spread the idea to a world interested in the Holy Land that the Arabs, angered because their Mosque of Omar or some other holy spot has been threatened, turned to bloodshed in defence.

Basically, the reason behind the conflict between Jew and Arab in Palestine is economic.

To find exactly how true this is, one has to return to the time before the Jews came back into Palestine to rebuild that country.

COUNTRY IN BAD SHAPE.

In his report upon the administration of Palestine for 1920-1925, Sir Herbert Samuel, first high commissioner, referring to the state of the country in 1920, said: "Villages have been destroyed; the stock of cattle and horses has been depleted; olive trees have been cut down for fuel for the Turkish troops and military trains; many orange groves left without irrigation have ceased to bear fruit; there is a general air of poverty and depression."

In those days, Palestine was a sad-looking country, wasted away, lethargic as the exploited fellahin (peasants) who plowed it with their crooked stick.

These fellahin knew no better. The effendi (aristocrat), who exploited them, told them to be content to work from sunrise until dark for one piastre (five cents) a day, with a few white lashes thrown in for good measures.

PEASANTS ARE ENSLAVED.

So the fellahin plowed on, under the hot sun. He was content to spread his abaya (loose cloak) out on the burning sands, whenever the muezzin called him to prayer and to kneel and thank Allah for his life, hard as it was.

British authorities frequently have difficulty in keeping the peace between Arabs and Jews in Palestine. In this they are aided by the Palestine police, a detail of which is shown on patrol in the top photo. Left below is shown an Arab town official in all his dignity; centre is a British official in the uniformed glory that makes a great impression on the natives; right is a typical Arab "gangster," whose services can be bought for a few piastres.

It is easy to understand how the dolorous sounding music heard in Arab villages; in the coffee houses, where the peasants congregate to smoke their nargilla; in the fields, where they tend their orange and black coloured sheep, originated.

It is like the wail of a soul, pleading to be released from torture.

In 1923, the intensive programme of rebuilding the Holy Land began, when the Jews who had settled there before the war, returned, many other European and American Jews with them.

The land began to flower. The rocks that infested the hillsides were taken out and broken, roads were made and hidden wells were tapped.

MONEY POURS IN.

The River Jordan, which had been both an object of religious respect and one of fear, because it overflows every once in a while, bringing tragedy to those who have their homes on its banks, was harnessed and night was turned into day in Palestine.

The radical change in Palestine was commented upon by the present high commissioner, Sir Arthur Wauchop, who last November reported: "The economic condition of Palestine remains sound. Many local industries continue to enjoy a marked degree of prosperity; there is considerable activity in the building trade."

As the £40,000,000 was being received and spent in Palestine, the Arab fellahin found that he was getting his share. New avenues of work were opening up daily for him. The pay was miraculously high.

BETTER TOILER IN HEAT.

Accustomed to the heat, the Arab peasant could work longer hours than the European immigrant at such labour as building roads, and found that the Jew had plenty of work for him.

And the Arab peasant found that many piastres could be earned for such work as dredging the potash out of the Dead Sea, pushing carts of valuable chemicals, tearing rocks out of the hills, and making them into cement, building pipes into which the thick oil from Iraq could flow.

In Tel Aviv, the modern city built on sand dunes, the fellahin found that many visitors came from far-off lands. They liked to ride around in carriages and were willing to pay generously.

The peasant found that he could earn for an hour's work, ten piastres and it used to take him ten weeks to earn that. So the square in Tel Aviv and those in Jaffa, in Jerusalem, and in Haifa began to be filled with carriages and smart new cars, with Arab drivers.

FIND PROFIT EVERYWHERE.

Selling fish, shining shoes, mending umbrellas, carrying luggage, all proved profitable occupations for the Arab peasants and soon they were thumbing their noses at the effendi.

Back in 1929, the effendi found that the many Arab fellahin were saying to them, "Why should we work for you for one piastre a day when the Jew pays us fifteen and twenty and sometimes more?"

Without the fellahin, whom they had exploited, the effendi found their wealth vanishing.

They used the only weapon left to them—inciting the illiterate masses to religious hatred. It wasn't long before the effendi-owned newspapers began to bear glaring headlines which told of the menace that was in the Arab country.

So thorough was the organisation of the effendi that a letter to this effect, bearing the news that the Mosque of Omar in Jerusalem was being burnt by the Jews, was signed by the Grand Mufti himself, titular head of all Arabs, who is in British government pay.

It was read aloud in the villages and towns of Palestine prior to the 1929 riots.

DOUBT THEIR LEADERS.

But many of the fellahin, who followed their Arab leaders in those riots, found that they owed heavy indemnity to the British government afterward for participation in the rioting. So it was difficult to stir enthusiasm for the first demonstration held in Jerusalem last October with the inciting lie, 600,000 Jews from Germany have come to take your land and all your mosques away from you."

The first demonstration in Jerusalem was a farce. It was like a good neighbourhood fight, with neighbours and relatives on the sidelines, encouraging the fighters to more energetic efforts. But in less than an hour, the English police had dispersed the crowd, taken a few battered Arabs to the hospital, and the attempted riot was over.

Results of the Jaffa riot were more tragic, with some 200 wounded and 25 killed, including English soldiers. The shambles in the square fronting the Government House was dreadful to see.

The eight-day strike which the Arab Executive (as the effendi organisation is called) then ordered was ignored almost entirely by the peasants in the villages.

The demonstration at Nablus was postponed once and then again. The country-wide demonstration planned for January 6 was called off. The fellahin refused to co-operate in any rioting against the Jews.

All in all, it's not so much a conflict between Jew and Arab as a clash between the Western and Eastern civilisations, their standards, habits, and manners.

ANTI-MUITSAI CAMPAIGN

ACTIVITIES OF HONGKONG SOCIETY REVIEWED AT ANNUAL MEETING.

WHY WORK MUST BE CARRIED ON.

A review of the work of the Anti-Muit sai Society of Hongkong during the past year, was given at the fifteenth annual general meeting of members held at the Chinese Young Women's Christian Association at Bonham Road last evening.

The report shows that while much good has been achieved in conjunction with the Muitsai Registration Department at the Secretariat of Chinese Affairs, much more remains to be done before the evil is finally eradicated. The difficulties in the way of total abolition were again instanced by speakers at the meeting.

A musical programme was ably rendered by students of the Young Chung Girls School and others.

Mr. Wong Sum-kan took the chair, and introduced the speakers.

Secretary's Report.

In the absence of Mr. Wong So-kin, the Hon. Chinese Secretary of the Anti-Muitsai Society, Mr. Mak Mui-sang was called upon to read the annual report. After making a brief review of the work done in the Propaganda Week, held between the 23rd and 30th of September, Mr. Mak stated that during the year—September 1933-October, 1934—no fewer than 24 cases had been dealt with by the Anti-Muitsai Society. Of these ten cases were of cruelty. In one the offender was convicted, in four the owners were warned, in five evidence was wanted to prove the offence. There were five cases in which the owners had failed to pay wages and one case of owner failing to notify change of address. During the year four muitsai had been liberated through the mediation of this society.

Early this year, Mr. J. D. Bush, the Hon. English Secretary of this Society, was offered a position at the Sun Yat Sen University, Canton. He accepted the post, and as a result was prevented by his frequent absence from the Colony from rendering his valuable services to this Society as liberally as he had done in previous years. His absence was keenly felt by this Society and it was then proposed that an Assistant English Secretary should be elected. In consequence, Mr. Y. K. Chan was co-opted by the Executive Committee.

For the year under review, our honorary legal advisers were Mr. Hin Shing Lo, and Mr. Peter Sin. Our honorary medical advisers were—Dr. Ip Tai Ching, Dr. Sin Lok Shang, Dr. Ma Lok, and Dr. Chau Wai Cheung.

The annual membership campaign of this Society was as usual organized and launched at the beginning of the year. Over 100 members were registered.

Concluding Mr. Mak wished that the Government would soon take steps to legislate for the registration of the adopted children, with a view to eradicating the evil system.

In the absence of Mr. J. D. Bush, the Hon. English Secretary Mr. Y. K. Chan gave a summary of the cases dealt with by the Anti-Muitsai Society during the past year. He said that the Anti-Muitsai Movement would not be as complete a success as the "Anti-Bound Feet" Movement, started at Amoy in 1874, if its supporters failed to bring their countrymen's sense of shame into play.

Mr. Yeung's Speech.

Mr. S. C. Yeung, a former chairman, said, "The Anti-Muitsai Society has passed 13 years since its foundation, but despite the fact that propaganda work has been carried on year after year, a great number of our countrymen are still indifferent to this noble cause of humanity. Why are they so indifferent? It is simply this. One party, as a rule, does not keep muitsai, so the welfare of these youngsters is of no concern to them. They little know that it is the duty of everyone to fight for the cause of humanity. So long as the muitsai system is tolerated, it is impossible to protect these poor girls from being sold and ill-treated, and we cannot even say that our own children will not be forced into slavery if such a system prevails. All evil systems, if allowed to exist, will sooner or later affect society at large. It is our duty to put an end to them.

"There is another party who regard the Anti-Muitsai Society as a social superfluity, assuming that legislation has already made the system illegal, that all muitsai have been registered and periodically visited by inspectors, and that wages have been paid to them. All these, in their opinion, mean a great success for the Anti-Muitsai Society which should cease to function as its aim has been achieved. There is some truth in their argument, but they should also note that cases of ill-treatment, and of traffic in children are still being reported. For example, this Society alone dealt with no less than 21 muitsai cases last year, not to speak of those passing through other hands.

The Difficulties.

"Though it is stipulated that wages should be paid to all muitsai, and it is legislated that ill-treatment of any kind is criminal, yet many cases have been reported of unpaid and ill-treated muitsai, compelled, through threats and punishments, to tell lies before visiting inspectors. If this Society did not exist, who would listen to their complaints? This Society helps not only the muitsai but also their parents. Although they know that they can have their daughters back without payment, it is by no means easy for these simple country folk to find out that the proper procedure is to approach the S.C.A. There should therefore be a society of this kind to give them the necessary advice. Besides, our countrymen in Hongkong, as a rule, do not like to go to court as witnesses on behalf of a muitsai who has been ill-treated. For this reason, they are rather reluctant in giving information to the authority of the place. If they simply tell the true story of the case to this Society, they are relieved of all responsibility. The existence of this Society, then, encourages our citizens to report and indirectly helps to give better protection to the muitsai.

"Another aim of this Society is to advise the owners of muitsai, if they condescend to consult us, as to the proper procedure they should take in liberating their slave girls.

"As Hongkong is a big commercial centre, many people from the interior of China are passing through the Colony every day. They often get into trouble through ignorance of the law. In so far as the Muitsai question is concerned, this society also acts as adviser to the public.

Four Points.

"Now I wish to dwell upon four important points:

"1. It is stated that there were 1,229 muitsai on the register on December 1, 1929. The actual number of muitsai in the Colony should by no means be so small. According to an older report, it was estimated that there were more than 8,000 muitsai in Hongkong. No doubt, in course of time, many have departed permanently from Hongkong; many have been restored to their parents and many have been married; but, on the other hand, it is not equally safe to assume that quite a large percentage of the muitsai in Hongkong have not been registered.

DAY-BY-DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

PRIDE IS A VICE NOT ONLY DREADFULLY MISCHIEVOUS IN HUMAN SOCIETY, BUT PERHAPS OF ALL OTHERS, THE MOST INSUPERABLE BAR TO REAL INWARD IMPROVEMENT.—Mrs. E. Carter.

The annual Licensing Sessions are to be held on November 7, at 3.30 p.m.

It is notified that Dr. J. P. Feby resumed duty as Port Health Officer and Inspector of Emigrants on October 24.

Notice is given that from Monday, November 5, the provision of diving suits, guard boats, etc., at Repulse Bay will be discontinued for the winter months.

It is notified that at the expiration of three months the name of the Far Eastern Building Company, Limited, will, unless cause is shown to the contrary, be struck off the register and the company will be dissolved.

His Excellency the Governor has appointed Mr. Stanley H. Dodwell, provisionally, and subject to His Majesty's pleasure, to be temporarily an Unofficial Member of the Legislative Council, in the place of the Hon. Mr. William Henry Bell, who is temporarily absent from the Colony.

The Hongkong Government 3½ per cent Bonds are now ready for delivery. Holders of old bonds should tender these in exchange for Bonds at the Head Office of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation at the Hongkong Office of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China.

"2. According to the annual report of the S.C.A., published three months ago, the total number of registered muitsai had been reduced to 2,726. In other words, of the number originally registered 1,573 have disappeared from the register. This great reduction was attributed to departures from the Colony, restorations to parents and relatives, to marriage, to liberation, on the muitsai coming of age, and to death, but was it not a result of owners failing to report changes of address as well? Many owners did this with the intention of evading periodical inspection, so that they might exploit their slave girls.

"3. At first this Society proposed that the Government should legislate for the registration of both the muitsai and the adopted child. In view of the difficulties of differentiating between the two, the government thought it wise to have both registered under the same name. It was possible to regard adopted children as muitsai before the term for registration had expired; but after that period, even true muitsai had to be called adopted children in order to evade the law. So it is not wise, after all, to let the two come under the same category. The reason is this: The adoption of children is not illegal and will therefore exist long after the banishment of the muitsai evil. As many have tried to evade the provisions of the Muitsai Ordinance under the pretence of adoption, it is not necessary then to have all adopted children registered. If this survival of barbarism, the muitsai system, is to be ended at all?

"4. To effect complete abolition in Hongkong, it is also necessary to start an Anti-Muitsai movement in Macao, Canton, and the interior of China. The Chinese National Government has banned slavery in any form; but owing to the fact that China is large and not united, as Mr. Huang Hsiao Hsun, Chinese Minister of the Interior, gave me to know when he was in Hongkong, this decree of the National Government has become a dead letter. This is quite true. But, in my opinion, if there had been an organization like the Anti-Muitsai Society in the interior of China, something might have been done.

Propaganda Work.

"It is now up to us to promote the activities of this Society, to carry on propaganda work, and to arouse the sympathy of the public. Our attitude towards the Registration Order is that the anti-muitsai movement has met with the approval of the Government. It is still too early to say whether the movement is a success.

"As we all know, the muitsai system is deeply rooted in the old civilization of China. It cannot be eradicated in a short time. I remember, the first Englishman who condemned slavery was John Wesley, the great preacher of the 18th Century. In 1774 he published a book unparagonably exposing the evils of the slave system. Thirteen years after this, the Anti-Slavery Society was founded. The successor of Wesley was William Wilberforce. After a struggle of 46 years the Abolition Bill was finally passed by the English Parliament in 1833. Since that time, one hundred and one years have elapsed; but the Anti-Slavery Society continues to exist. It is clear, then, that to ban an evil custom by legislation alone should be a very slow process. We must fight to the end."

SCOTS VOLUNTEERS.

CELEBRATE HALLOWE'EN AT COMPANY DINNER

"Hallowe'en" was celebrated at the Hongkong Volunteer Headquarters last night by one of the largest and most distinguished gatherings which has yet been held under the auspices of the Scottish Company of the Corps.

Capt. H.R. Forsyth, O.C. of the Company, presided and among the many guests present were—Mr. A. S. MacKichan, Chief of the St. Andrew's Society, Lt. Col. H.B. Dowbiggin, O.C. of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps, the Hon. Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor, Chief Justice; Mr. A. I. Shields, Capt. A. H. Potts, Major J. C. Macgown, Lord Douglas Malcolm Douglas Hamilton, 2/Lt. G. E. C. Moutrie, Lt. J. R. Way, Major N. C. Parkes, Capt. J. S. Rodrigues, Lt. F. W. Ross, Mr. W. W. C. Sheehan, Capt. W. Stewart, Mr. G. G. S. Thomson, Mr. H. W. Bonner, Mr. J. C. Dunbar, Sergt. Dennis, Mr. J. J. Hayden, Mr. K. S. Morrison, Major H. M. J. Macintyre, Capt. G. F. Maclean, 2/Lt. G. E. C. Moutrie and Capt. D. W. Northlock.

The haggis was piped in in traditional style and a true Scots selection of dishes provided the Royal Fare.

Following the Royal Toast, Capt. Forsyth proposed the toast of "Our Guests" and reviewed the activities of the Scottish Company during the year. He paid tribute to the assistance of the South Wales Borderers instructors and noted with gratification the improvement of the Company's performances in machine gun operation. The Company's strength was 44 at the moment though some of them were on holiday.

Mr. MacKichan in reply said that he was an ex-member of the Hongkong Scottish Company and in recalling his membership he said he remembered the formation of the Company in 1919 and its various vicissitudes. He was glad to note that its enthusiasm was still maintained and that the Scots Company had always stood for the rights of Scotsmen in the Far East.

The programme was interspersed with songs and dances, the programme being "Scots Who had" sung by the Company; "A Bagpipe selection" song by Angus Daddles, Sword Dance "Strathspey" by the pipers, selected songs by the Company, and a pipe selection by the pipers. Mr. J. J. Ferguson was the accompanist.

TAIT'S CARNIVAL.

PATRONS CAN DRIVE WITHOUT A LICENCE

There is one place in the East where one can drive without a licence, where there are no traffic police to pull one up and demand name and address, and where one can break all the rules of the road to the heart's content.

"Whore" one may well ask, "is this the Tait's Carnival?" At Tait's Manila Carnival all this is possible on the greatest riding device ever brought to the East—the "Dodgem". Twenty small cars, under the control of their own drivers. These cars can be driven around over a smooth surface 50 by 80 feet, each car having a reverse gear so one can drive either forward or backwards. There is a deal of bumping, of course, but that does not matter—it is part of the fun. Each car is surrounded by a big rubber buffer, so one need not get frightened of a "smash up".

Other riding devices with the carnival this season are the Big Wheel, Slide, Merry-go-Round, and a new ride called the Leaping Lena.

Good side shows new to Hongkong include the motor-drome, in which a motor-cyclist races a baby motor car around the walls, a hair-raising exhibition, the ever popular Hawaiian Hula dancers; the great Abulson with his magic show; living statues, vaudeville show; Tarzan, the ape man, who performs with snakes, and various other freaks and shows which go to make up the carnival.

They open their local season on October 31, on the ground opposite the Peninsula Hotel, Kowloon. It is hoped that before the end of the season here the very latest amusement device which Mr. Tait has just brought from the Chicago Exhibition will arrive. This is a captive flying machine, on which one can actually learn to fly.

The big free act for this year's carnival is the world's champion high diver, Pecky Higgins, and his lady partner. This will be something entirely new for Hongkong, and being of an aquatic nature should prove a big drawing card. For this performance no charge is made except the usual gate admission of 20 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

A MILE OF DOLLARS.

NETHERSOLE HOSPITAL'S REBUILDING FUND

Some of the nurses who have received their training in the old Nethersole Hospital have expressed a wish to have some part in the rebuilding scheme. As a result a meeting was held last Wednesday evening to discuss the best method of collecting donations. The sisters and probationer nurses were also present.

Dr. Gibson introduced the subject, and explained the circumstances which had made it necessary to demolish the old hospital building; he also emphasised the urgent need of undertaking the erection of a modern hospital as soon as possible.

Miss Kong Ching-poh, a former nurse, then proposed that the nurses should aim at providing a ward in the new hospital. She suggested that a dollar subscription be organised, and explained a scheme for collecting a mile of dollars. Miss Kong showed strips of cardboard each divided into ten pockets large enough to contain a dollar. Ten silver dollars measure approximately one Chinese foot, therefore a Chinese mile (11) would amount to $18,000. The progress of this collection will be shown on the hoarding of the Nethersole vacant site.

The scheme met with hearty approval, and three hundred strips were carried off by enthusiastic collectors. Anyone who would like to help the nurses to attain this mile, is requested to send his or her "feet" to the Matron, Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals, Bonham Road.

CLUBS GET INTO SHAPE FOR BADMINTON SEASON

ENTRIES FOR LEAGUE FILTER IN

CRICKET PLAYER SHOWS FORM

ST. ANDREW'S TO EXPERIMENT

K.C.C. LIGHTING EXPERIMENT

(By "Veritas").

Its "do it now" time for the badminton clubs. Entries for the league close on Wednesday next, and there are still several promised participants who have to give notice of their intention to take part in the competition this winter.

So far the Kowloon Cricket Club, St. Andrew's Club, Elliot Hall, Sailors' and Soldiers' Home and the Victoria Recreation Club have applied for admission to the Badminton Association and its competitions.

The K.C.C. intend to enter a team in the men's doubles, ladies' doubles and mixed doubles, and St. Andrew's are following suit. Elliot Hall, the S. and S. Home and V.R.C. have indicated a desire to compete in the men's division only.

It is hoped that the other clubs who are confidently expected to join up, will do so between now and next Wednesday. Among these are the Club de Recreio, Jockey Club, Engineers' Institute, Fire Brigade Club, Tai Koo Club, Y.M.C.A., and St. John's Cathedral Club. It is expected that the Recreio, Fire Brigade and Tai Koo will enter ladies teams, in which case there will be about half a dozen teams in the ladies' section.

TEAM BUILDING ACTIVITIES

Team building activities are going apace at the K.C.C. and St. Andrew's. The former, deprived of the assistance of several of last year's players, will have no easy task in fielding a really strong team in the men's division, but every effort is being made to secure new blood.

If he can devote the time to the game, Captain Walsh, the well known Army cricketer, will prove a big asset to the club. Making his first appearance for two years on a badminton court this week, Captain Walsh quickly revealed that he is an adept at the game. He played the game a great deal in England, and founded one club which is now in a flourishing state. He hits very hard, as well as possessing firm control over the more delicate short shots.

St. Andrew's chief difficulty with regard to the men will be deciding who to leave out. At the moment they can call on the services of E. F. Fincher, A. E. P.

Richards To Ride The Blue Boy

AFTER OWNERS TOSS COIN

London, Oct. 26. Gordon Richards, the champion jockey, will ride The Blue Boy in the Cambridgeshire classic.

This decision was reached in a novel way. Richards was retained for both The Blue Boy and Celestial City, both horses being trained by Martin Hartigan, but for different owners.

Sir Wyndham Portal owns The Blue Boy and R. F. Watson Celestial City.

To overcome the difficulty these two owners tossed up for the services of Richards, and Sir Wyndham Portal won.

Celestial City will be mounted by Gethin.—Reuter.

Guest, H. Kew, and F. A. Broadbridge to form the nucleus of the team, and they have a number of eligible candidates for the remaining two vacancies. The decision of Miss Margaret Woolley to throw in her lot with them also ensures St. Andrew's being in the position to field useful mixed doubles and ladies teams.

It is a matter for satisfaction that the executive committee of the Association found it necessary to "condemn" only one court in the course of their inspections, and only the V.R.C. will be asked to play all their matches on other courts. The fact that their courts have been approved should be an added stimulant to some of the teams who feel a bit doubtful about joining the league. In this connection I am thinking chiefly of the Chinese Recreation Club, St. John's Cathedral and the Y.M.C.A.

LIGHTING EXPERIMENT

Incidentally although the Jockey Club has probably the best lighted courts in the Colony, the K.C.C. hope to run them very close when they have completed their experiments. Efforts are being made to relieve players of looking directly into the lights which now adorn the balcony and opposite wall, by placing blinkers around them. It is also hoped by these means to divert the lights over the far ends of the court so that they shine straight down on the baseline. Such a diversion with the exposed lights over the centre of the court, should at least mean an improvement in the playing conditions. Of course the real difficulty, and one which cannot be overcome by mere lighting arrangement, is that the ceiling is painted white, which not only offers an unhappy background for the shuttlecock, but prevents any proper "backing out," no matter what lighting system be adopted.

PERRY'S EPIC STRUGGLE WITH ALLISON

Vivid Description Of U.S. Tennis Championship Final

The epic match between Fred Perry and Wilbur Allison in the final of the United States singles tennis championship last month has not yet been fully described to the Hongkong public, but the accompanying description, which appears in a recent issue of Lawn Tennis and Badminton, vividly portrays the splendid fight made by Allison and the brilliant manner in which Perry overcame a determined challenge.

Both men were "longs" and Allison won the toss and elected to serve. He went into fore court immediately but two netted volleys were his undoing. Perry served out the second game and then came a great struggle for the third. Perry was "pointing" better but Allison was very fleet of foot and was continually boring in, and after that first game he was generally bringing off his volleys. Allison won the third game and Perry cried "Oh boy" in frank admiration of a good shot. Allison was paying particular attention to Perry's weaker wing, the backhand. Perry's magnificent smash helped him make the score 3-1 after Allison had advantage twice and was missing by his break, both men playing finely, and Perry's drives, taken on the rise and just skimming the net but pitching deep, were made with such ease that they seemed almost mechanical.

WONDERFUL PLAY

Allison drew up to 3-4, racing about the court and pounding the ball hard. Perry was going to the net often in the effort to hold his lead, but Allison passed him and then lobbed twice—one lob pitching on the baseline and the other just missing it. Then came a rally and Allison drove hard and deep to Perry's right corner for the point, the Englishman letting the ball go. This made it 4-1 and the play of both men was worthy of the highest praise.

Perry's ankle was apparently all right; he could run and reach the ball without difficulty, but by standing in he had to cover much less ground than Allison. The latter began the ninth game badly but reached deuce after 15-40. A net cord shot helped Perry, and then Allison fell in trying for a short ball—and Perry had the break and was 5-4.

Perry took no chance in his service game to follow, his play being almost errorless; and the set was his at 6-4. There was little to choose between the two. Perry was the steadier, the easier player, and appeared to be keeping a lot in reserve; while Allison was working much harder and making more errors, especially in failing to get his first serve in.

ANOTHER QUICK START

Again Perry started quickly, won Allison's service and then his own for 2-0. Wonderful shots came from the rackets of both men and Allison's smashing was superb. Another service break made Perry 3-0, although Allison had his chance at advantage. Perry served out the fourth game and clearly had a very decided advantage. Allison won his service at love; Perry

IF PETERSEN GOES TO AMERICA

DEMPSEY WILL TAKE HIM IN HAND

AND MAKE HIM WORLD CHAMP.

Jack Dempsey is bickering with Jack Petersen's manager to take the British and Empire Heavyweight champion to America, and is reported to have declared that he will make him world champion inside two years, according to a message received from London by the United Press.

London, Oct. 26.

Jack Petersen, 23-year-old British and Empire heavyweight champion, is the best hope for the world title the old country has had since Bob Fitzsimmons relinquished it in 1906.

Petersen has about one more fight in this country—against the veteran Australian George Cook, with both titles at stake—before he goes to the United States. Jack Dempsey, ever with an eye for potential champs, is bickering with Jack's manager "Pa" Petersen to take the lad in hand on the other side.

Nothing is settled yet, but Jack is reported to have declared that he will make him world champion inside two years. If the financial details can be arranged, it is believed that the Petersens will accept.

STILL TOO WILD.

Dempsey will have to cram a lot of work in during that two-year limit, for Petersen cannot be said to be near the real championship class as yet. He is British champion only because there's nobody better here to beat him. At the moment, though, he is still too wild and impetuous. He has the double fault of not only missing badly at times, but leaving himself very much open. His defence is weak, his ring-craft is weaker, and on occasions he leads with his right.

All these faults can, of course, be corrected by the right training, and by experience—Jack has only been a top-liner for the last couple of years. On the credit side he has plenty of stamina; he is fast, and he can take it. Opinions differ whether he has a punch or not. Probably he has when he has learned to give it that extra bit of wrist as he connects.

It would be all in Petersen's favour—to go to America. He has exhausted all the "build-ups" here and only a match with the German ex-champion Max Schemmeling can put him in line for Max Baer.

It is believed whether or not Dempsey takes him in hand, Petersen on the other side will make a leisurely climb up the ladder over such rungs as Steve Hams, Art Lasky, Tommy Loughran, Johnny Risko and Schmelling. He will not, however, if he can help it, meet Primo Carnera.

Like many another British hope who has gone to America to polish Lawson Little, San Francisco golfer, with his trophy, emblematic of the American amateur championship, won at Brookline, Mass., over David Goldman of Texas.

FOOTBALL AT SHAMEEN

"CICALA" DEFEAT RESIDENTS

Canton, Oct. 26. In a league football match yesterday evening, H.M.S. Cicala defeated Shameen by three goals to one in an evenly matched game. After 15 minutes, the Navy scored their first goal and play continued in an uneventful way till half time. In the second half, Shameen equalised through a mistake on the part of a back, but the "Cicala" quickly had the lead again through a scramble in front of the goal. The Navy's third goal came from a penalty kick after Shameen had rearranged their side to strengthen a weak forward line.

The Navy were the better team and once they had the lead were never in any real danger of defeat. For Shameen, Seogelken, playing left back appeared to be the best on the field. C. A. Wright at centre-half worked hard while Stirling and J. L. Wright maintained a good defence.

Those playing for Shameen were: Linaker, Stirling, Seogelken, Agnew, C. A. Wright, J. L. Wright, Terdre, MacLaughlin, Brodie, Clibborn, Davis.—our Own Correspondent.

GRADIDGE'S

THE LEADING SPECIALISTS IN SQUASH.

There are three essentials for the perfect squash racket:—

- (1) Great strength of shaft to take hard knocks on the wall, etc.
- (2) The racket shaft must be light to give the correct balance.
- (3) The area of gut being so small there is only very little "give," therefore, it is necessary to get "LIFE" in the shaft to get the feel and correct timing.

GRADIDGE'S 'WHIPPET'

is the only Racket that embodies all these points. It has become the most popular Squash Racket and has amply justified Gradidge's confidence in stating that it is the world's best.

HOCKEY ASSOCIATION REALISES A DREAM

VALUE OF SERVICES V. CIVILIANS MATCH

PROVIDES EXCELLENT GUIDE TO INTERPORT SELECTIONS

AROUND THE CLUBS: THE WEEK'S BEST PERFORMANCES

CLUB XI NEEDS RE-ARRANGING

(By "Bully-Off")

AN oft repeated dream is at last to become a reality. I refer to the proposed match between the Combined Services and the Combined Civilians.

AS will be recalled during the selection of the last Interport hockey team there was much controversy as to the Services' representation. One Navy player mentioned to me at the Interport dinner "Why not have a Combined Services against Civilians match and in some way put an end to this controversy regarding superiority." This match should prove of inestimable value as a test of the strength of the respective teams and Colony supporters will be given an opportunity of seeing what their best possible strength can do against the combined Army and Navy. Not only that but the match will serve as a criterion to the selection of the Interport team to visit Malaya in February.

THE game will undoubtedly prove one of the most popular fixtures in the local hockey calendar and will, in all probability, be an annual fixture.

ON the point of there being too many tournaments if the Hockey Association were to introduce the proposed Triangular Tournament between the Army, Navy and Civilians it can readily be seen that the Colony is well served with tournaments and the introduction of any additional competition would only go to make the hockey programme more drawn out than is necessary.

THE introduction of W. H. Colledge to the centre-forward position in the St. Andrew's Club team had proved a definite success. The Saints have long been looking for a forward of his type. Possessing clever stick-work Colledge is an apt leader and from what I have seen of his play he should be among the leading goal getters this season.

THE St. Andrew's Ladies have been trying out many new comers among them Miss G. Krutakaya showing good promise as a forward. She is hard-working and a good tiler. Other newcomers are Miss L. Arnold, Miss L. George, and Miss E. Holloway.

MISS M. Figueiredo, of the Recreo Ladies, is playing a good game on the right wing these days. She was one of the outstanding forwards in the friendly match against the Saints Ladies on Tuesday.

AT the beginning of this season I mentioned that the Y.M.C.A. were a force to be reckoned with, and they have certainly justified my remark during the past week, with a record of having won the three games played.

PERHAPS their most creditable win since the beginning of the 1933-34 season was their victory over the Hongkong Club on Wednesday with only ten men in the field. I congratulate them heartily. They have been unfortunate in losing the services of H.J.D. Lowe, who is at present in Amoy prior to going on leave and D. McLellan. McLellan played in the first two matches this season but has notified them that it will be impossible for him to continue hockey.

F. FOWLER has also given up hockey. I am rather sorry that he should have made this decision as he had the makings of a really good goal-keeper. He only played between the sticks during the latter part of last season and if he had continued this season the experience gained would most likely have found him a place in one of the Interport games.

S. FOWLER had a dual job on Saturday, covering two positions inside right and right wing. He played one of the best games I have seen him play for a long time and caused no small measure of worry to E. V. Reed. W. J. Brown was in his usual place in the centre of the attack, but has still that failing of not catching the ball well on his stick and so wastes valuable time, especially when in the circle.

SOMMER played at centre-half, and was not convincing. I have seen him play much better. I understand he will be a regular player for the Club this year.

AS regards the Club they will have to make some very radical changes in their 1st XI side. Rodgers was as safe as ever at left back and cannot be replaced, but Flowerdew was not altogether impressive. He has adopted the bad habit of hitting indiscriminately across the field instead of feeding his own flank with accurate passes. I would suggest that E. V. Reed be played at back. The Club, if they were to adopt this move would be in rather a quandary as to how to fill his place at right half. If it is true that Sommer is playing for the Club he could be included at right half to great advantage. W. A. Reed will take up position as pivot of the half back line, but this will leave a vacancy on the left. I would suggest bringing Pote-Hunt into the left half position.

W. W. C. Sheehan at right half was another player who did not shine during Wednesday's game. The three goals scored by the Y.M. came from the left.

THE Club forward line is well led by Senior who has joined their ranks this year. He is, however, inclined to be over-anxious and on Wednesday was often pulled up for sticks. But for this I think he might have been able to notch a couple of goals, or even made the verdict a draw.

THE following players will represent St. Andrew's Club in a Mamak Hockey match against H.M.S. Koppal on the Police Training School Ground at 3.30 p.m. to-morrow:—R. H. Wong, F. A. Brondbridge and E. H. P. White; A. S. Bliss, A. E. P. Guest and A. B. Carroll, J. T. K. Gilchrist, E. F. Fincher, W. H. Colledge and R. Baldwin. Reserve:—E. MacNider.

English tennis fans were treated to the unusual sight of one of their 'split-skirted' young players, as the conclusion of a match to congratulate her victory over Phyllis Astbury, after their Junior championship match at Wimbledon.

Perry's Epic Struggle With Allison

VIVID DESCRIPTION OF U.S. TENNIS FINAL

chucking the last point.

Perry served a double fault in the sixth game and, apparently annoyed, kicked the ball. Prolonged applause greeted Allison's breakthrough, and Perry covered his ears with his hands and waited for the applause to die down.

Allison served out the seventh game, making three in a row; Perry was erring badly, the net stopping many of his balls. Perry recovered in the next game, making it 5-3 on his service. It was then Allison's turn to make mistakes and he lost his service, hitting the last ball 'way out and giving the set to Perry at 6-3. It was clear that at his best Allison was not at a disadvantage, but he was making many more mistakes than he had against Wood the day before, while no one could fault how much Perry had in reserve.

TIDE TURNS.

The tide turned in the third set. Allison won Perry's service in the first game and made it 2-0 on his own delivery in easy fashion; it seemed as if Perry was having a lot of trouble after winning the first two sets. Perry's double fault and a fine drive by Allison gave the latter a chance for the third game; but the American then made two errors in succession and it was 2-1 instead of 3-0.

Worse was to come for Allison, as he made error after error and lost his service, making it 2-2. At 3-2, Perry serving, the crisis was reached. The Englishman was broken through, his errors and Allison's forcing tactics and net play, both of which were crowned with success. Starting the next game with a double fault, Allison evened with a punching volley; he then volleyed just out, and Perry came to his aid by netting two services—one just failed to clear the net, and Allison was 6-4. Errors put Perry at 6-40 in the next game, and while a fine drive came from his racket he drove the next ball out, making it set for Allison at 6-3.

PERRY PLAYING EASILY.

Allison began the service and won it after a struggle. Perry volleyed; he was missing nothing and playing easily, while Allison was always forcing, running miles and seeking to end the rallies quickly. Allison was 0-63 in the next game but extricated himself.

Perry's exclamation—"Luck of the devil"—was audible. Allison ended the game with a service ace. Perry's service was won in the fourth game, the applause causing him again to put his hands to his ears.

Allison was foot faulted in the next game but he won the point nevertheless. He reached 4-1, ending with another fine smash, and went on to 5-1 on another service break, the end coming on his hand drive to the baseline. Allison won the next game and the set at 6-1. Perry driving out four times in succession. It was plain that he was not trying, evidently preferring to start the fifth set with service.

THE FIFTH SET.

Perry won his service in the first game of the fifth set and fought desperately to win the next one to his score. He was 30-40 on a marvellous passing shot, but Allison equalized with a fine volley and followed with a service ace; Perry went to the net but was passed by Allison for the game.

The next two games were won on service and it was 2-2. Perry was 0-30 on service and then 15-40; Allison drove deep and hard to Perry's backhand corner and went to the net to finish; Perry just reached the ball but it was not over Allison's head and it pitched plumb on the base line. An inch farther and it would have been Allison's game for 3-2 and his serve to follow.

The gallery gasped. Allison had turned around to watch the flight of the ball and shrugged his shoulders when he saw that it was good.

The game was not over, however. Perry reached deuce but then drove out; Allison netted Perry's service and went in and volleyed for the next point, only to net again for deuce; Perry netted and again Allison netted and followed with a drive that was just out. It had been a magnificent effort but it just failed.

Perry then won Allison's service after deuce had been reached for 3-2, the American seeming to react from the previous game. Perry went on to 6-2, playing easily and well and Allison missing shot after shot. Allison served out the next game for 3-5.

The ninth game was a classic. Perry was endeavouring to hold his lead, Allison to wrest it from him. The American was plainly tired, as he had reason to be, but he still stormed the net and punched his volleys. With Perry at 15-30 Allison just missed a difficult volley, but Perry, netted for the next point, and after a rally Allison charged in to the net and put away a volley in beautiful style. He had won Perry's service and was then 4-5. The next game was all Allison's; he volleyed, benefited by a net cord, and then scored on a drop shot. It was 5-5, Allison having won three games in quick succession.

THE FINISH.

Perry served the next game at love, and Allison had to fight de-

FRIENDLY HOCKEY

H.K. Singapore Brigade Beat Recreo

Leading by a clear goal at half-time, the Hongkong-Singapore Brigade, Royal Artillery, defeated the Club de Recreo by four goals to nil in a friendly hockey match played on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon.

Opening at a fast pace, the Portuguese defence repulsed the Indian attacks, but eventually Iya Singh broke through to give the Brigade the lead, which they maintained to the interval.

On resumption the soldiers' forward line combined well, and from a corner hit Lieut. C. C. Garthwallo, the Interport cricketer, found the net. Shortly after, Khuda Bux netted the third goal and Garthwallo added a fourth.

The Portuguese tried hard to score and came dangerously near on many occasions, but off-side prevented their attacks from materialising.

J. Gonsalves at right half, and W. A. Reed in the pivotal position, played well for the Recreo.

C. B. A. DEFEAT SIGNALS. Playing with only ten men, the Central British Association defeated the Royal Corps of Signals by three goals to nil on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon, in a friendly hockey fixture.

Within a minute from the initial bully-off, H. Pearce scored the first goal. W. H. G. Hirst netted the second point from a pass by S. MacNider. Towards the interval Pearce again found the net.

There was no scoring in the second period of the game.

A MAMAK MATCH. The Mamak Hockey Tournament match between H. M. S. Whitehall and the Hongkong University resulted in a victory for the naval side by two goals to nil, the scorers being Lieut. Com. Brewer and A. W. Davis.

LINDRUM'S LEAD

WORLD BILLIARDS CHAMPIONSHIP

Melbourne, Oct. 26. At the close of play in the World's Billiards Championship to-night, Walter Lindrum (Australia) had established a commanding lead over Joe Davis (England), and his retention of the title now seems assured. The match finishes to-morrow.

The position at the close of play to-day was: Lindrum 21,567. Davis, 20,898.

Lindrum's best breaks to-day were 618, 424, 347. Davis had breaks of 381 and 357.

The Australian played brilliantly, his cannons being a feature. Davis played a patchy game, and missed many easy shots. He concentrated on safety play during the afternoon.

perately to win his service in the following one; he had lost the first point on a double fault that followed a shot, call of fault on the first serve; Perry netted and then drove out; Allison drove a very difficult ball into the net; in rallies that followed Allison smashed for one point and volleyed for another, giving him game and making it 6-11. Allison had given just about all he had and the wonder was that he could still keep going at top speed. Perry was fresh and quite confident at this point. He won his serve easily for 7-6. Allison netted twice in the next game and then drove out; but he then made a volley and a smash, to reach 30-40. A rally followed and Perry ended it by punching to Allison's backhand corner, forcing the latter to net. It was a fitting climax.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

By MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XXI

The room had been whirling around Boots. Now it righted itself again and she was herself—pale, tired, a little shabby, in her old blue hat, her fingers locked around an armful of bundles. She was in the doorway of the living room with its Chinese ginger jars and its faded rug and Denis Fenway was staring at her.

"In at Loh's for Christmas," he said calmly. "They went over to hear the carols and I took a walk and thought I'd drop in for a minute...."

"Stay and have a bite of supper with us," he said, his face urged cordially. "It's just baked beans and cole slaw and tea...."

He was taking the bundles from her now. His lean hands took the coat from her shoulders. He was following her into the dining room, where the cloth blazed white under the domed and lozenge centred fixture. Boots was in a daze. She moved and spoke and laughed in it. To have him here, in this warmth and shabbiness and homeliness was the shrewdest ecstasy. She might as well enjoy it while she could. Later, after he had gone, the knife might twist in her heart. But for the present the food she ate was ambrosia, the jokes they all made were triumphs of rare wit. She was neither conscious of weariness nor the passage of time.

Every time Denis glanced in her direction, every time his low laugh rang out she was conscious of a wave of pure happiness washing over her like a tide. This was being alive—to be aware of every syllable, every slightest glance and infection.

"More salad!" Her mother's look enfolded her. The girl leaned back with a long sigh.

"Oh, I couldn't. I've had so much. It was all so good and I was starved."

Denis glanced at her sideways, considering. Under her pallor she fairly glowed.

"Work agrees with you!" She flushed, glancing away. "Think so? Thanks. By the way I don't believe I ever thanked you for giving me that chance with Mr. Materson."

He waved a careless hand. "I knew you'd suit him, once he saw you."

Happiness, happiness, washing over her, soothing her very being. "I know you suit him...."

It was a weary enough compliment, to be sure, but the words glittered in her mind; she treasured them.

"Why don't you put me out?" Denis drawled a few moments later when, established in deep chairs before the fire, Miss Florida had laid with painstaking hands, they faced each other. "Barging in here on Christmas Eve—it's inexcusable. And you have things to do, haven't you?"

At the hands she had forgotten them all. Make him stay a little while, God, she prayed in her heart. I've had a little of him, ever, and when he's sweet like this, gentle and quiet and happy, with that grin look gone out of his eyes, let him stay....

Edward's big hammer stood imposing and unpacked in the hall. Her mother and Miss Florida murmured softly over the dishes in the kitchen. Upstairs her father dozed over his pipe. And the village was gay with lights on outdoor trees, with lamps lighted in all the little houses. In the dimly lighted room the girl and the man sat on. He roused himself to say, in a silence: "I was a beast that last night I saw you. Thought of it often. Hope you forgive me."

Her breath came and went quickly but she kept her voice steady. "That was all right. Just one of those things...."

"I'd been at Kay's," he was remembering, aloud. "Rotten party, out of her wrinkled woollen frock and She hadn't been nice to me for days. Kay's a darling, really," he interposed, "but when she gets into a vixenish mood you can't do a thing with her. She's said something about you and Edward getting on like a house afire. I don't know why it made me mad, but it did. I was in a bad mood. Then I'd had some villainous cocktails, too. It just seemed a good idea at the time to drop in and offer you advice. I don't know why I behaved as I did. But I'm sorry. Say you forgive me."

With an effort, she throttled her anger. So he'd come to her, held her in his arms for an instant because Kay had been "vixenish," had he? Oh, why forgive me! Must he spoil his apology with Kay's name?

"That was all right," she told him equably. And then, striving to keep her voice commonplace, she went on, "How is Kay?"

His smile flashed at her. "Splendid. She's gone home to England, you know—for Christmas. Coming back in several weeks. I miss her."

Drums, drums throbbing now in her head and a dull, sick pain in her heart. Of course she wouldn't be seeing him. Kay wasn't away. Kay, with her elegance and her elegant little brows and her scented, finished beauty.

He got to his feet. "Lois, I wonder what happened to me. It was good of you to let me come in and stay a while. Say goodnight to your mother for me, won't you?"

Her smile was prieration. Her manner had just the right shade of casualness. But after that right shade closed behind him she stood, actually trembling with emotion—with anger. He had upset her hard-won composure by coming here to-night. Lightly, he had strode in and out of her life, as he supposed everything was settled and she was definitely committed to her future with Edward.

He appeared, causing her pulses to thud and her mind to whirl.

"Mrs. Raeburn came out into the hall. She managed a smile. 'I just shut the door after him. You must be dead.'"

"I am a bit tired. You don't want to unpack that hamper to-night, child? Never mind—the morning will do as well. We'd better set it in the pantry. It's marked perishable. I'll lock Kitty down cellar so she can't get at it."

They mounted the stairs together. Miss Florida was splashing happily in the bathroom. They could hear his thin voice above the roar of the faucet, singing "The Faints."

"Daddy's asleep," the mother said contentedly after a glance into the big front bedroom. "He sleeps well—that's a great mercy. I must say. He had a good day."

"I'm a fool and an ingrate to bother about Denis Fenway. Boots told her self passionately, when mother is content with so little. Just a roof over her head and enough food to eat and the assurance that all of us are alive and moderately well...."

There was a square, squat box on the dressing table, addressed in Edward's angular hand. Boots regarded it dreadingly. Dear Edward! He would always do the correct thing; send her lovely presents for her anniversaries; remember her preference for food and scent. She would never have any quarrels with Edward, probably. It was the faithful type. He had said so, himself. This Edward, this dark-browed, nervous-fingered young man with the deep voice—was the sort after whom women always ran. You never knew where you were with the Denis Fenways of this world, thought Boots savagely. She stood out of her wrinkled woollen frock and stood, slim, deliciously curved, in her tailored slip. She frowned at herself in the oval mirror. She wasn't really alive looking, she reflected, yet Denis seemed never really to see her. Even when he had kissed her he had been thinking of Kay, punishing Kay.

At the thought, her heart-shaped face, framed in its pale gold hair, flushed rosy. The flush ran down over her creamy skin, to the little hollow dipping between her breasts. She flung a hand over her eyes.

"Aren't you going to open your box?" Her mother's voice recalled her to the present. "Child, alive, you'll catch your death. The furnace has been banked for half an hour. You know how cold the house gets."

Boots snatched her woolly robe and flung it over her shoulders. Yes, she would open Edward's gift—for her mother's delectation, at least.

The box lid, laid back, revealed a creamy string of small pearls, perfectly matched. Mrs. Raeburn's faded eyes lighted at sight of them.

"Barbara, they're beautiful! You lucky, lucky girl!"

Miss Florida had to come in then, her thin, homely face glowing from its recent scrubbing. She had to be shown the treasure and echoed the sentiment.

"You're a very fortunate child. I declare, I never saw anything more handsome."

Alone in her room later, Boots stared at the rosily tinted globules slipping through her fingers. She would have rarer things, finer things than these, from Edward's generous hands. The pearls were a symbol of her life to come.

She knelt down by the bed. "Please, God, make me worthy of him. He deserves something better than this. But make me love him as much as he loves me."

It was her second prayer that night. First for Denis, now for Edward. But she would put Denis out of her heart forever. That was the only way.

BIG PROGRAMME OF WORK

IMPORTANT DEBATES IN COMMONS

RESTRICTIONS ON BETTING

London, Oct. 26.
A heavy programme of work lies before the Government when the House of Commons reassembles on Tuesday.

Several important domestic measures are down for consideration during the closing weeks of the present session, which, it is hoped will end in time for the new session to be opened by the King on November 22.

Important debates on India and certain international matters are expected, while an exceptionally large number of questions to Ministers, including 35 that were handed in before the Summer recess, await answers.

In regard to legislative measures the Betting Bill which has encountered considerable opposition owing to the restrictions it imposes in regard to betting on dog-racing, and the strengthening of the law against lotteries will take a prominent place. The Bill is at present before the Standing Committee, and if its consideration were not completed, the Bill would die with the end of the session. In order to insure its passage, the Commons will be asked to remove it to a Committee of the whole House.

The Electricity Supply Bill enabling the Central Electricity Board to supply current direct to railways, has passed the House of Lords, but its remaining stages in the Commons have still to be completed.

The Incitement to Disaffection Bill also has still to pass through its final stages in the Commons. —British Wireless.

It is notified that His Honour the Chief Justice has appointed Mr. J. S. MacLaren, Deputy Estate Duty Commissioner, to be a Commissioner to administer and take declarations and affirmations for the purpose of the Estate Duty Ordinance, so long as he shall continue to act as Deputy Estate Duty Commissioner.

MR. N. L. SMITH APPOINTED AS S.C.A.

Promotion For Popular Cadet Officer

It is notified in the Gazette that His Excellency the Governor, under instructions from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, has appointed Mr. N. L. Smith to be Secretary for Chinese Affairs, in the place of Mr. A. E. Wood, retired.

Mr. Smith has been in the service of the Hongkong Government for a period of 24 years, during which time he has held many important posts, including those of Head of the Sanitary Department, Postmaster General and Director of Education. He is qualified both in Cantonese and Pekingese, and holds the Chinese Order of Wen Hu, 5th Class, which was conferred on him in 1920. In 1914, he was seconded to act as British Postmaster in Shanghai and was seconded for military service in 1916. A capable and conscientious official, he has won much popularity during his lengthy residence in the Colony, and his many friends will congratulate him on his appointment.

Other appointments gazetted are: Mr. T. H. King to act as Inspector General of Police and Chief Officer of the Fire Brigade, and to be temporarily a member of the Legislative Council.

Mr. D. Burlingham to act as Deputy Inspector General of Police. Mr. R. A. D. Forrest to be a drop the sleeve over the deck in the ordinary way, but the cable jammed. The pilot then slipped the sleeve, but as it fell the wire fouled the "Island" and dropped the sleeve into the sea, astern the ship. The wire itself fell on deck just abaft the "Island," where a group of officers were standing. A warning shout was given and all jumped clear with the exception of Flying Officer Porter. The end of the wire caught him round the right ankle and dragged him along the flying deck, and over the side into the nets. Here the wire parted, but when Flying Officer Porter was reached it was found that the tension on the wire caused by the pull of the sleeve in the water had caused a compound dislocation of the ankle.

The victim was immediately taken to hospital and when the Eagle came south was brought to Hongkong. We understand he will leave for Home shortly where his leg will be examined to decide whether amputation of the foot will be necessary.

SILVER UNCHANGED

Silver prices in London were unchanged yesterday. India bought, while speculators bought and sold on a quietly steady market.

A bankruptcy notification states that a first and final dividend of 55 per cent. has been declared in the case of Wu Yuen-shi, widow, of 45, Woon-sung Street, Yaumati.

His Excellency the Governor has nominated Mr. C. H. Lim as a member of the Court of the University of Hongkong for a period of three years.

As from January 1, 1935, the following proportionate fees will be charged for the Sunday cargo working permits—Where the working is limited to midnight to 6 a.m., a quarter of the scale fee; 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., half of the scale fee; 6 p.m. to midnight, quarter of the scale fee.
